

going and coming

Education for Diversity

Welcome to our first Newsletter of 2012. Much has happened since our last Newsletter, the Going & Coming project is up and running and now contains nearly 500 stories written by pupils in Yorkshire and the Humber.

Pupils have used their imaginations to the full, entering their accounts in a variety of ways from poems, transcripts to stories and diary entries. Well done to all of you, we thoroughly enjoy reading them and viewing your pictures especially your drawings.

The next few months are going to be rather hectic for Stephen and myself as we travel around the county touring the 'Boat Boat-people' show and running workshops etc, so look out for our little blue van.

We are always amazed at the enthusiasm and politeness of the pupils we meet. Their eagerness to get involved in the project makes them a pure delight to perform to and work with. As a huge thank you we have decided to launch our first competition, details below, so come on get creative with those stories and have some fun.

Competition

You could win your school a fantastic prize! Every month we will be picking our favourite story from the site and the lucky winner will win a Primary Colours teaching pack for their school worth £125!

All you have to do to enter is submit your story to the site. So if you haven't finished your Going and Coming story yet, get cracking to be in with a chance of winning a brilliant prize. Make sure to include as much as you can in your story.

- We want to hear you interviews as well as read your stories so don't forget to upload sound clips

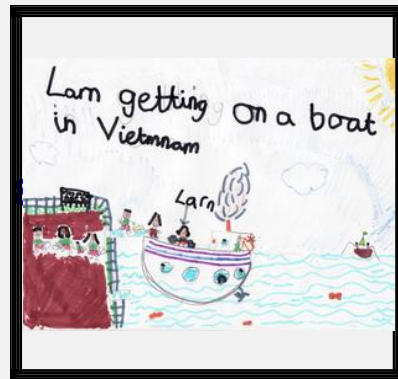

- Include your brilliant pictures and drawings to show us the people and places in your story
- Lastly, make sure your story is at least 100 words long and takes us on your Going and Coming journey

The first winner will be announced on 29th February 2012.

The decision of the judges is final.

The winning story will feature on the Going & Coming website and in the next Newsletter.

So watch this space and be inspired.
